UPSC Exam Guidance – Techniques, Skills, and Strategies for Success

The most important reason for applying for the civil service exam is getting exposure to a platform where you can help each section of the society serving the greater good. UPSC preparation requires a lot of effort, hard work, and dedication. It is needless to say that becoming an IAS officer is a dream for many. The life of an IAS officer is filled with challenges and opportunities. Right from rigorous studies to a foundation course and district training, it is all about dealing with different situations and shaping the entire personality of an individual

Foundation Course

The candidates who are recommended for the Grade-A posts are invited to join the 3 months foundation program at LBSNAA. The Grade-A posts can be for IAS, IPS, or IFS. After 3 months, the candidates of different services join their respective departments or academies for training. Therefore, IAS officers remain in LBSNAA, but IFS and IPS officers move to their institutes for training.

The Phase-1 training program is of 15 weeks that includes the Bharat Darshan program. As the name suggests, it is the complete tour of the India program. During the Bharat Darshan training program, the IAS probationers are set up in small groups before they are taken for a tour of India. This helps them inculcate the habit of working together in a group. The program includes land management modules, project management, e-gov., policymaking, national security, etc. The day starts at 6 AM with exercise, then the lectures and the evening ends with cultural activities.

District Training

The District training is a whole year training program. The training is given at the district level. The officers become part of any particular district and study their administrative setup.

Phase-2

An IAS officer reaches Phase-2 after clearing Phase-1. This means they have undergone all sorts of training and case studies for a year. Now it is their chance to interact with colleagues and share their experience from Phase-1. It is a group study where all probationers discuss their experiences in different administration setups, the challenges, and how they resolved them.

This is an interesting way of gaining experiences by listening to each other's scenarios. It is considered a group study or a case study. This program helps in development by learning through various experiences.

The IAS officer Curriculum is for 26 weeks. The day starts at 6 AM. The trainees gather at the Polo ground to exercise for 60 minutes. After exercise, the officers are given half an hour to return to their room and get ready for their morning session. The morning session starts at 9.30 A.M.

Conclusion

The session was concluded with a great positive impact on student. All the students were fully motivated by the speaker and got the positive view about the career in UPSC Examination.

Swayam Siddhi Mitra Sangh's Degree College had organized one day session “Career Option in Government Sector” “through Zoom Application. Mr. Ajay Mishra (Asst. Prof. Saket Degree College) was the guest speaker of the session. He had effectively motivated the entire students throughout the session. He also guided the students about various beautiful and easy ways to deal with the questions regarding various competitive examinations.

Important things discussed during the session with the students by speaker:-

Importance of Developing Logical Reasoning, Cognitive Ability, and Critical Thinking Skills for competitive examination

Logical reasoning is the foundation for math, computer science, and many other disciplines. Competitive exams such as the science and math Olympiads aim to gauge students' progress

Critical thinking is the skill one obtains over time by thinking and developing logic, judgment, and taking decisions open-mindedly and coherently in the real world.

Encourages Independent Thinking

Children initially require a lot of demonstration in education to help them learn and comprehend. Since problem-solving requires a great deal of reasoning and analysis, prolonged and frequent demonstration does not work.

Promotes Creativity and Innovation

By thinking out of the box, children get creative solutions to the problems they face. This is true whether it is a school math problem today or a more important professional dilemma years down the road. Critical thinking allows us to innovate our ideas better and gives a sense of control over the events in our lives.

Enhances Analytical Thinking

As children begin to think independently, they also begin to understand the options they possess. They start weighing down possible results from all sides, evaluating different options, and eventually, arrive at the most favorable outcome. Multiple-choice questions or problems with various ways to reach the desired answer are very beneficial.

Strengthens the Brain

Diverse types of tasks activate various parts of the brain such as memory, verbal-logical memory, visual-shape memory, and more. Verbal reasoning tests and logical reasoning tests enable children to distinguish between fact and fiction, animate and inanimate objects, shapes and models in math, theory, and complex equations.

Implements Hands-on Learning Approach

Let us face it. Rote learning has less value in the modern world than many previously thought. Instead, cognitive ability helps ditch the rote learning method and implement a more hands-on approach that allows the children to learn through trial and error.

Conclusion

Logical thinking is an act of analyzing situations and using reasoning abilities to study the problem and make a rational conclusion. When you become a logical thinker, you gather all the information you can, assess the facts, and methodically decide the best way to move forward with your decision. Most people consider logical thinking an essential tool to brainstorm ideas, analyze problems, and find answers at home, workplace, or in educational institutions.

He also guided the students about methods and tips to gain current information and knowledge.

Important things discussed during the session with the students by speaker:-

Current Affairs preparation is a very important cog in the wheel of the strategy to clear the IAS examination. There is no fixed formula on the weight age given to the current affairs in the UPSC Civil Service Exam. The weight age keeps changing every year, however, it is obvious that the weight age given to it is important if a candidate is preparing seriously to

It is important to understand the reason behind importance given to the Current Affairs by the Union Public Service Commission (UPSC) in the Civil Service Exam. The candidates who successfully clear the examinations are going to be generalists. They are not going to play the role of specialists. To put things into perspective, a civil servant will not be building bridges, roads, satellites or missiles.

Rather they will be given opportunities to lead the public sector undertakings (PSUs) in highly technical domains, take part in decision making roles in the health care sector, finance, tourism domains etc. Hence it is imperative that UPSC expects its candidates to have a great deal of awareness and the curiosity to keep absorbing knowledge, information and develop the ability to synthesize vast amounts of information.

Tips to cover latest current information

Current Affairs Preparation:

Reading the newspaper alone is not sufficient for Current Affairs preparation, below listed are some useful books that candidates can refer for current affairs:

- India Year Book
- Newspaper- The Hindu, Indian Express
- Manorama Yearbook
- Economic Survey
- Mathrubhumi Yearbook
- Current Affairs – Arihant
- Yojana Magazine
- Kurukshetra Magazine
- Pratiyogita Darpan Magazine

Conclusion

The current affairs events mentioned below represent a cross-section of the diverse issues that have captured national attention in recent times, reflecting the multifaceted nature of India's socio-political landscape.

By integrating current events into the broader syllabus, aspirants can showcase their readiness to take on the challenges of governance in an ever-evolving world.

The Civil Services Exam aims to identify individuals who have the potential to become effective administrators and policymakers. In the modern era, administrators are required to make decisions that impact not only the nation but also the international community.

He also guided the students about proper study planning and time management.

Important things discussed during the session with the students by speaker:-

How to Make a Study Routine

Creating an effective study routine isn't a one-size-fits-all approach. Here's a breakdown to Evaluate your schedule: Before building your study routine, closely examine your daily schedule and commitments. When do your classes start and end? Do you have any extracurricular activities? Do you have to work after class? By understanding your daily schedule, you can create a more personalized study routine.

Set realistic goals: Have you ever told yourself that you'd finish reading 10 chapters of your textbook in a single all-nighter? You're not alone in falling into this lie countless times. That's why breaking down larger academic goals into smaller, achievable tasks is a must. You need to be able to set specific and realistic goals for each study session.

Plan study blocks: After being honest with yourself about your goals, decide how many hours a day you would dedicate to studying. It could be as short or as long as you want — as long as you guarantee that you can maximize your study time. The quality of your learning is more important than the quantity or amount of hours you put into studying!

Create a distraction-free environment: Spending 10 hours studying is useless if it's broken up scrolling through social media. Because of this, it is important to minimize distractions during your study sessions. You can do this by finding a quiet, clutter-free space where you can concentrate fully. Turn off your phone and use website blockers like Cold Turkey to maximize productivity.

Organize your study materials: A well-organized set of resources can save you time and stress. Check out our post on the best Notion templates for students for some inspiration.

Prioritize sleep and schedule: Studying is important, but so is your physical health! Your cognitive abilities are directly linked to your wellbeing. Make sure you get enough sleep and fit in some physical activity to keep your mind sharp.

Stay consistent: If you start committing to your planned study schedule as much as possible, it'll eventually become second nature and make it quicker to dive into a state of deep focus every time.

Be flexible: Life happens, and things don't always go as planned — and that's okay! It just means that your routine might need adjustments from time to time. Don't be too hard on yourself, and learn to adapt to changes in your schedule. If you accidentally missed a study session, relax and just pick up where you left off.

Conclusion

As a result of these effective study session preparations students are able to approach their exams or essays with confidence and perform at their best. They are able to manage their time effectively, retain information better, and produce high-quality work. These study session preparations serve as a solid foundation for their academic success and help them achieve their learning goals.

Swayam Siddhi Mitra Sangh's Degree College had organized one day session on "Opportunities in Defence Sector" on 20/08/2022.

The guest speaker of the session was Mr. Chand Yadav (Ex-Army Officer Indian Army). He had conducted the session very positive manner and guided all the teachers regarding Defence career opportunities for the students

Important things discussed during the session with the students by speaker:-

Defence careers can be categorized into 3 categories such as:

1. Indian army
2. Indian Navy
3. Indian air force

National Defence Academy (NDA)

The NDA is meant for those candidates who have completed or are about to complete their 10+2 level of education. And just in case you have missed your train due to some reason, no worries. You still have the chance to get into these highly coveted services after completing graduation. The CDSE is for those who have completed their graduation.

However, many other ways are also there to get into these forces

Apart from NDA and CDSE, one can also get into the Indian Air Force Academy through:

1(A). NCC SE (Men only):

As an Air Wing Senior Division 'C' Certificate holder of the National Cadet Corps, one can apply to the Flying Branch of the Indian Air Force. Men can join the Air Force Academy and get training in flying branch through this mode of entry and will be given a Permanent Commission

These were the main modes how male candidates can apply for the force. But there are ways through which female candidates can also apply:

There are also some other ways to join the Indian Navy Service:

1. UES Entry:

UES stands for University Entry Scheme. The pre-final year and final year male students of engineering degree are eligible to apply for this entry. There are a number of branches like General Services, Executive entry etc. For Naval Architecture Branch, both women and men can apply. The specific branches and commission types may vary

2. 10+2 (B.Tech) Cadet Entry:

Navy announces it as the 10+2 Entry which is similar to 10+2 Technical Entry of Army. Boys who have passed 10+2 with Physics, Chemistry and Mathematics and have secured 70% as an aggregate can apply for this entry. This is a technical entry, where applications are shortlisted based on the percentage and SSB calls are given to eligible candidates. The training duration of this course is for four years. A degree of Engineering is awarded to the candidates on successful completion of the training.

3. Graduate Direct Entries:

These are a number of entries which require a minimum graduation degree. These entries can be for branches like IT, Logistics, Administration, Observer, Pilot, Education etc. Navy keeps on publishing advertisements for the same at different times of a year. The mode of entry is direct, based on the graduation cut-off. Different branches may have different educational qualifications, as required by them. Men and Women both can apply for SSC and PC.

4. Army Cadet College (ACC) Entry:

The eligible Other Ranks (OR) in the age group of 20-27 years and minimum of two years of service, having 10+2 pass qualification can apply for a Regular Commission. After qualifying in the written examination conducted by the Military Training Directorate, the aspirants are screened by SSB and the Medical Board. Successful candidates are then trained at Army Cadet College Wing, Dehradun, for three years at the end of which they get a graduate degree. This is next followed by one year of pre-commission training at IMA, Dehradun

5. NCC (Special Entry Scheme):

University graduates possessing NCC 'C' Certificate with a minimum 'B' grade and 50% aggregate marks in graduation examination are eligible to apply for Short Service Commission through this entry. Those studying in the third year are allowed to apply provided they have secured a minimum of 50% aggregate marks in the first two years. Such candidates will need to secure an overall aggregate of minimum 50 % marks if selected in the interview failing which his candidature will be cancelled. Candidates must possess a graduate degree at the time of joining OTA or those candidates studying in the third year should produce the degree within 12 weeks from date of commencement of training at OTA. Such cadets are exempted from writing the examination conducted by the UPSC and are directly put through the SSB interview followed by a medical board. Candidates meeting the qualitative requirements shall have to apply through NCC Group Headquarters at the State level. After Screening by the respective Group Headquarters, the Directorate General of NCC forwards the applications of eligible cadets to the Recruiting Directorate of Integrated Headquarters of Ministry of Defence (Army).

Conclusion

Above all helps the students to enrich quality of life tempered by a good discipline offered by the services which cannot find a comparison. The glamour of large compensation in the private sectors attracts a lot of young people. While some do make a pretty success out of it, yet in a majority of cases the pressure of prolonged working hours, often against the biological rhythm brings in a lot of dysfunction in their life. This, in turn, leads to a quick burn out and avoidable stress-related medical problems. It is time that the new generation realized life is not about being in a hurry but to step back and enjoy the journey of life.
